

COMENIUS EARLY CAREER PSYCHOLOGIST AWARD

1. Introduction and history

The Comenius Early Career Psychologist Award was given to EFPA by the Union of Psychologists' Associations of the Czech Republic (UPA), to be awarded to a young psychologist from Europe who has made an original contribution to psychology as a science and profession. The prize was awarded for the first time at the ECP 2007 in Prague to Professor David De Cremer from Belgium, at that time at Tilburg University (Netherlands). At the ECP 2009 in Oslo the award was given to dr. Katie Elizabeth Slocombe from the University of York (UK) at the ECP 2011 in Istanbul it was given to both dr. Emily Holmes from the University of Oxford (UK) and dr. Koen Luyckx from the Catholic University of Leuven (Belgium). At the ECP 2013 in Stockholm the prize was awarded to dr. Wilhelm Hofmann from Germany, at that moment working at the University of Chicago. In 2015 the award was given to Dr. Pauline Jansen from the Erasmus University Rotterdam (Netherlands) at the ECP 2015 in Milano. The last award went to Dr. David Daniel Ebert from the Friedrich-Alexander University Erlangen-Nürnberg (Germany).

2. Criteria

The Comenius Early Career Psychologist Award will be given to a young European psychologist whose contribution is documented by:

- List of publications in scholarly journals, monograph(s), and chapters in books, and quotation index of the nominee.
- List of presentations at national and international conferences.
- Originality/novelty of her/his contribution to the psychology as a science and/or a profession.
- And who is within 10 years of the completion of his/her PhD or equivalent professional standing. The award is intended as an encouragement for young psychologists

Jan Amos Komensky – Comenius (1592-1670). Comenius was one of the first Europeans who contributed substantially to the knowledge of psychological aspects of learning and personality.

3. Selection Committee and Procedures

EFPA has set up a 7-person Comenius Early Career Psychologist Award Committee which includes:

- EFPA President
- EFPA EC Member
- EFPA Secretary General
- EFPA Board of Scientific Affairs member
- UPA – delegate
- EFPSA – delegate
- CASP (Czech Association of Students of Psychology) – delegate

Application procedure: (please send each document as a separate file)

- a letter of nomination, sent in by EFPA's (associate, affiliate) member associations, signed by two nominators
- a statement as to how the nominee meets the criteria (see point 2)
- a list of publications and presentations at national and international conference

- a current curriculum vitae with picture with contact details (email address).

Selection procedure:

- call for nomination
- nominations to be sent to headoffice@efpa.eu
- one nomination is to be sent by every member association or sectorial/associate member association of EFPA.
- nominations will be selected according to stated criteria by the selection committee and be accompanied by a CV
- Recommendation to the Executive Council (EC) will be made by a vote of the Selection committee and confirmed by the EC.
- Deadline for nomination: November 30, 2018

Timeline:

- November 30, 2018: deadlines for sending in nominations of MA
- January 2019 : nominations to be screened by Selection Committee
- January 2019 : Selection Committee sends decision to the EC following procedures
- January 31, 2019 : EC approving the recommendations
- Feb 15, 2019 : Winner to be notified by EFPA
- Feb 2019 : Comenius Award to be casted by UPA
- July 2019 : Award presented at the ECP in Moscow

The Comenius Early Career Psychologist Award Lecture will be delivered during the European Congress of Psychology:

- The Comenius Early Career Psychologist Award is awarded during the Opening Ceremony of the European Congress of Psychology by the President of EFPA and a representative of the Union of Psychologists' Associations of the Czech Republic (UPA).
- Arrangements for the award of the Prize and for the Lecture or Symposium will be made by the organizers of each European Congress of Psychology.

Brussels, October 2018

